

Unfortunately, as stated before I wasn't able to do any sort of volunteer work due to my pregnancy. Long story, short I was 22 weeks pregnant when the doctor in the Emergency Room told me my water broke and I couldn't go into labor until he was 26 weeks because he wouldn't be able to live without me. Right when I heard those words my heart just tore into pieces and the doctor told me I had to be in complete bedrest to see if it could seal on its own. The, when I was 35 weeks with a day I had my beautiful son named Julian Dominic Ortiz, weighing 4 pounds and 12 ounces.

However, while I was in R.O.P Medical Careers I learned a lot new things that I never pictured on knowing. For instance, I learned a lot of vocabulary words that had to do with nursing and abbreviations for certain words. The abbreviations had to do with diseases you could get or symptoms. Also, normal things that a nurse has to observe such as bowel movement, range of motion, etc.

Another thing I learned that has to do with the elderly or any other patient that isn't as strong as before is being able to move them with a transfer belt or how to help them out by using a walker. Also, it was my first year and first time using a stethoscope and measuring people's blood pressure, and lastly, feeling their pulses in different areas of the body. Something I liked from that class is that for $110 I received 2 scrubs, stethoscope, blood pressure cuff, military time watch, and really comfortable shoes. Above of that, I have life time guarantee on them if they were to mess up or break.
